1. Texts in the Slovak National Corpus (SNC) were obtained from our text providers subject to agreements on other non-commercial use of text products in accordance with Slovak copyright law. Therefore, access to the SNC is allowed only for scientific, research, educational and other non-commercial purposes.

2. Use of data obtained from the SNC (concordances, frequencies and other data created on the base of all or selected texts) is granted under the condition of citing corresponding part(s) of the SNC. A citation of one specific work (newspaper, journal, book, article etc.) should include the SNC as the primary source and the identification of given text according to the bibliographical standard.

3. Citations should not exceed 100 words of continuous text.

4. After publication of a work using data obtained from the SNC, the author will provide the bibliographical identification of this work to the SNC. The author may also provide a printed or electronic copy to the SNC archive.

5. The right to access the SNC is personal, non-transferable, and valid for the calendar year of this registration, with an opportunity to renew the access for consecutive years. After each year elapses and after an appropriate warning from the SNC, the user account will be disabled until the renewal or a new registration is carried out.

6. The user must not tamper with the functionality of computer systems of the SNC, neither try to obtain unauthorized access to information beyond the data provided by the SNC.

7. The SNC has the right to limit or terminate the access to the text at any moment.

By signing this document I hereby confirm that I accept these terms of using the text of the SNC.
